A. WILSON NORRIS DEAD.

Stricken Down After Eating Dinner at the Club House.

FRIENDS ARE GREATLY SHOCKED

Fatal Summons Came When he Was Apparently in the Enjoyment of Good Health. Popular With Troops.

WAS WELL KNOWN IN BELLEFONTE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—There will be deep sorrow throughout General Gobin's brigade of the Second Army Corps at Augusta, Ga., when the news is flashed from Harrisburg that Captain A. Wilson Norris Assistant Adjutant-General of the brigade is dead. There was not a more popular officer in the army than he, and the sad circumstances of his death will be discussed throughout the camp.

He returned home late Saturday night, and while not felling as well as usual, was not regarded as a sick man. He spent some time at the Harrisburg Club Sunday meeting old friends and discussing his experiences in the South. He had dinner at the club, and immediately, thereafter complained of feeling unwell.

Dr. McAllister was summoned, but Captain Norris continued to grow worse. Two or three other physicians were hurridly sent for. They did all that was possible to save the young officer's life but he passed away within an hour or two. The doctors say that death resulted from heart failure, superinduced by acute indigestion.

Several personal friends of Captain Norris called on his mother and broke the sad tidings to her. She was prostrated with grief, as the young soldier was her pride and comfort. His friends at the Harrisburg club were terribly shocked at his sudden death. He had appeared cheerful and in excellent spirits and seemed glad to be home again, even for a short time. He came to attend the inauguration ceremonies, and to see his friend and admirer, General Gobin, inducted in the office of Lieutenant Governor.

No one will more regret the death of this young officer than his commander. They had been associated in military matters for several years.

Captain Norris first entered military life as a member of the City Grays, now Company D, Eighth regiment, located at Augusta Ga. When the City Grays cadets was organized as an auxiliary of the company he was placed in command and soon made the cadets famous for their fine military discipline and excellent drill. He was later appointed Sergeant-Major on the staff of Colonel Magee, of the Eighth regiment, but he subsequently resigned. At a later period he joined the Governor's Troop and while a member of this organization was appointed on the staff of General Gobin.

At the outbreak of the war with Spain when the brigade staffs were not accepted he was appointed adjutant of the Eighth regiment and went with the regiment to Camp Alger. When General Gobin was appointed brigadier-general in the volunteer army he had Captain Norris detailed for duty at his headquarters. While the brigade was at Camp Meade the President appointed Captain Norris assistant adjutant-general, with the rank of captain. He has since been with General Gobin's headquarters, and it was not generally known that he had arrived in Harrisburg Saturday night and the news of his death caused the most profound sensation and the expressions of regret were general.

Captain Norris was the son of Dr. John C. Norris, of Salona, Clinton county, and was in his twenty-eighth year. On the death of his parents he was adopted by the late Colonel A. Wilson Norris, former auditor-general, after whose death the widow removed to this city. Captain Norris studied law and was admitted to the bar at the age of 21. He was an eloquent speaker and gave promise of a brilliant legal career, having assisted the district attorney several, times in the trial of cases. He was exceedingly popular in social circles and during the campaigns in this city and county was always in demand on the stump. He was twice elected vice-president of the Republican State League.

She Secured Over $300.

Miss Nellie McCormick, daughter of Attorney General McCormick, by the endless chain letter plan has procured for the Home for the Friendless, Williamsport, a helpfull donation. The young lady started the chain of letters on September 1, 1898, and it ran until December 1, 1898. The contributions ranged from 25 cents to $10, and in the three months she secured a total of $314.50.

Wreck on Fall Brook.

Saturday afternoon as a Fall Brook passenger train was going through the gorge near Tiadaughton during a storm, a large tree was uprooted and fell on the top of the baggage car. The car slid along under the tree, but when the opening between the baggage car and the next coach was reached the tree slipped between the two and derailed the passenger coach and the smoker. These two latter cars rolled over the 15 foot embankment and plunged into Pine creek. The passenger coach rolled over and over several times, but righted itself when it reached the creek bed.

Those uninjured at once began assisting those who were imprisoned in the coaches.

The following named were injured:

J. Baird, Elkland; T. W. Evans, Jersey Shore; C. B. Farr, Williamsport; May Gleason, Tioga, seriously; James Gavican, brakeman, Corning; Frank Hammond, Slate Run; A. Huffman, Corning; J. C. Peterman, Corning; M. C. Russell, Williamsport; Jeremiah Shay. Slate Run, seriously; John McGannon, conductor, Corning.

The Grit says that Miss May Gleason and Jeremiah Shay sustained the most serious injuries. The former was in a pitiable condition. She had been tossed from side to side of the rolling car. Her clothing was almost torn off and she was terribly bruised about the body. When rescued, she was clutching the back of a seat and almost submerged in the icy water. Miss Gleason had been visiting her sister, Mrs. W. E. Delaney, wife of the well known Slate Run physician, and was on her way home. She was taken back to Slate Run.

Mr. Shay was also dangerously hurt. He was in the front end of the coach and was struck a severe blow on the head.

With the exception of Miss Gleason and Mr. Shay the injured passengers were able to care for themselves.

Joseph Boyle, the engineer of the ill-fated train, stated that he was running at a 25 mile an hour rate up through the Tiadaughton gorge. There was a veritable cyclone raging at the time.

About two years ago a Fall Brook passenger train was wrecked near Blackwells in almost a similar manner. A falling tree tore up the tracks in advance of the train. In that wreck the fireman was killed and a number of passengers badly hurt.

Sam Jones Sizes Up Negro Domination.

Every time anybody tries to get any legislation through down there (in Georgia) for God and the right some little jackass Democrat will jump up and say it is unconstitutional or will promote negro domination. Negro domination—why there is no such thing. It is simply this: If there were no emoluments connected with the offices the white men would give them all to the negro and feel no degradation. That is a pretty tough thing for a Southern man to say, but it is true nevertheless When the number of negroes in office gets too high everybody has a picnic and a few funerals occur, then things roll on as before. Still, I think I am safe in saying that on the average there are no more than twenty-five negroes killed by white men in a year in the South, This is plenty, however, to tune up all the old fiddles in "Yankee Doodle" and set them to playing. Down in Wilmington N. C., trouble of some time ago with the negroes has passed and nobody thinks of it now. There is no feeling about it and everything is smooth as before. The whole trouble centers about the holding of the offices. It is the same old story of a lot of calves who get mad when the pigs get into the stall and start to sucking the cow.

Absolute Indifference.

A woman who has been a victim of indigestion and is kept to dyspeptics' diet most of the time was recently invited to a dinner, which she was anxious to attend.

She went to her telephone and, trusting to a somewhat unreliable memory, she asked to be connected by the ever-obliging "Central!" with telephone 2394. When the connection had been made she began her plaintive query, without any prefatory, "Is that you, doctor?"

"I want very much to go to a little dinner to-morrow night," she began rapidly, "and do you think it would hurt me if I ate just a taste of soup, and perhaps a little fish, or the least trifle of game and a bit of salad or ice? I really think my stomach"—

Here she was interrupted by a voice from the other end of the wire.

"Madam," it said, coldly, "eat whatever you please. This is the Meteor Rubber company."—Youth's Companion.

HONORS TO DINGLEY.

The State Funeral Held in Washington Tuesday.

THE GREATEST IN MANY YEARS

Thousands of Persons Streamed Through the Doors and Looked Upon the Calm Face of the Dead Representative.

THE SERVICES WHICH WERE HELD

WASHINGTON, January, 17.—A state funeral, almost majestic in its impressiveness, was given to the late Representative Nelson Dingley at noon in the house of representatives, where he has so long been such a commanding figure. The president, his cabinet, distinguished members of the diplomatic corps, members of the supreme court, senate and house and distinguished men in military and civil life were ranged about the bier on the floor of the hall, while the galleries were occupied by the families of those who sat upon the floor and other prominent personages invited to be present. Some of them, like a delegation from the New York Chamber of Commerce had come from a distance to pay their last tribute of respect to the dead statesman. Not since the late William D. Kelly, of Pennsylvania, was given a state funeral in the house during the Fifty-first congress, while President McKinley was chairman of the ways and means committee, has such an honor been conferred upon a member of the house. The remains were taken from the Hotel Hamilton to the capitol yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and were borne into the hall of representatives by a squad of capitol police under the direction of Sergeant-at-Arms Russell, The casket was placed on a bier in the area in front of the marble rostrum of the speaker and for an hour the public, which would have no opportunity to witness the official ceremonies later, was allowed to view the remains as they lay in state,

Thousands of people streamed through the main door down past the casket and gazed upon the calm, serene features of the dead during that hour.

At noon Speaker Reed called the house to order and after the chaplain's prayer the resolutions of both houses on Mr. Dingley's death were read and passed.

A quartette sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" and the services were conducted by the Rev. S. M. Newman, of the First Congregational church of this city, assisted by Rev. Dr. Couden, chaplain of the house.

Rev. Newman read the fourteenth chapter of St. John, and spoke of the deep solemnity of the occasion and the great lesson which might be drawn from the life which had been finished.

Rev. Couden, the blind chaplain of the house, made a toushing prayer and the exercises were concluded with the singing by the quartette, to the organ accompaniment of "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Dogs Would Not Eat It.

PITTSBURG, January 16.—Members of Battery B, Pennsylvania Volunteers, say the beef sent to Porto Rico was so bad that even dogs would not eat it. J. Harvey Scott, who was connected with the Battery commissary, said Saturday:

"I only ate the beef for three days, as it turned my stomach, but from what I saw of it I don't think it was very good. I saw the cook throw a piece to his dog one day and the dog took one whiff of it and then threw up its head and ran away. I remember one day I was detailed to help bury a mule which we had to shoot, and at the same time we burried a lot of beef, and I must say that the beef smell was more offensive than the dead mule."

Joseph Feitwell, acting commissary of the battery while the command was on the island, said:

"If I were to be called I would corroborate the testimony of General Miles. Time and time again the boys would come to me and make kicks against the quality of beef they were being furnished. What could I do? I had to hand out the beef furnished me and if it was rotten I could not remedy it."

Found Dead in Her Chair.

At Lewisburg, no Tuesday morning, a neighbor called at the residence of Mrs. Mary Murray, a widow, to make inquiries about her, as she had not seen Mrs. Murray for several days. She found the widow sitting in a chair dead. From the appearance of the corpse she had been dead several days and had been frozen to death. Mrs. Murray was the widow of Tony Murdi, who hung himself several years ago.

Revised Proofs.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Commissary General Eagan yesterday sent to the war investigating commission a revised statement in place of that originally made in response to Gen. Miles' charges:

"OFFICE OF THE COMMISSARY GENERAL OF SUBSISTENCE, WASHINGTON, Jan. 14, 1899.—To the commission appointed by the president to investigate the conduct of the war department in the war with Spain: Gentlemen—I have the honor to hand you herewith my testimony, which is now re-submitted and revised in accordance with the views expressed by you in your letter to me of January 13, 1899. The objectionable feature and what is considered irrevelant matter by you, in which opinion I entirely agree, are eliminated.

"In this connection I desire to state that there was never a thought or intention on my part of any disrespect whatsoever to your commission, but in explanation and in extenuation of the language used by me heretofore, I beg to invite the attention of the commission to the fact that I have been accused practically of feeding the soldiers with poisoned beef, which made them sick, 'embalmed beef,' so-called; that I have furnished meat to the army under the 'pretense of experiment,' which charge in effect is corruption and worse, because it jeopardizes the lives of soldiers sent to the front in tropical climates and who were dependent on such food as was sent them; that these statements have gone to the whole country uncontradicted; that they have been published and I have been pilloried in the press of the country as a man who had fed the army on poisoned meat, and corruptly so; and that for about three weeks' time I have been kept silent for the reason that I was debarred after talking with the honorable secretary of war from preparing charges because of the immunity granted by the president to witnesses before your commission. Notwithstanding the gravity of the accusations, that it is unreasonable to believe that such monstrous charges could have any other effect than to work upon an honorable man in such a way as to goad him to a species of desperation, and that it was but natural, when the opportunity was given him, to meet and refute the charges, that he should characterize them in harsh language and in terms that are deemed improper, no matter what the provocation. I therefore withdraw the language and matter so objectionable, and resubmit to you now my sworn statement with the abiding faith that your commission, having all the facts before you, will decide the points at issue justly. Very respectfully,

CHARLES P. EAGAN,
Commissary General."

The commission, after a brief executive session, decided for the present to make public only General Eagan's letter, and not the accompanying statement.

Great Crush to Hear a New Preacher

NEW YORK, January 16. There was an actual crush before the opening of the doors of Plymouth church. Brooklyn, yesterday morning of people determined to hear Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, formerly of Chicago, deliver his first Sunday sermon in the edifice. The gathering in its different phases recalled forcibly to mind the days of Henry Ward Beecher and Dr. Hillis's more ardent friends were delighted beyond expression. When Dr. Lyman Abbott, the retiring pastor, opened the services at 10:30 o'clock every pew and gallery seat was filled and the extra chairs in the lower aisle were taken.

People stood five and six deep in the rear aisles and there was a line of listeners standing along the walls of the spacious side aisles. It was probably the largest attandance since the Beecher period. Dr. Hillis occupied a seat on the platform to the right of Dr. Abbott and Rev. Dr. Henry M. Field was on the latter's left.

Dr. Hillis was listened to intently. He seemed perfectly at ease and spoke so distinctly that every person in the church heard him. His theme was "Jesus Christ the Supreme Example of Genius in the Realm of Intellect."

A Black Fox in Maine.

LISBON, Me., January 16.—The most exciting thing in Lisbon this week was the advent of a black fox in town. A genuine black reynard is hard to find. Moreover, when the pelt is prime it is worth anywhere from $100 to $125. No wonder then that when Bert Coombs came home one night at dusk with the report of an exciting chase through flurries of snow and over brush and through thickets, of a lively black fox with glossy fur and glistening eyes, a crowd of expectant men it was that started out the next day.—Lewiston Evening Journal.

STONE INAUGURATED.

A Brilliant Ceremony Attends his Taking the Oath.

THE PARADE AN IMPOSING FEATURE

The Chinese Minister's Presence Was one of the Notable Features of the Parade. The N. G. P. Made a Splendid Showing.

GOV. HASTINGS GAVE A LUNCHEON

Harrisburg, Jan. 17.—The inauguration of William A. Stone as governor of Pennsylvania, which took place today, brought thousands of visitors to the state capitol, including many Republican clubs from Philadelphia and other points of the state to participate in the inaugural parade. The military display was unusually large and attractive, there being nearly 5,000 men in line. General Snowden was in command, and Colonels Schall, Magee and Miller were at the head of their respective brigades. The regiments participating were commands mustered in since the breaking out of the war with Spain, including the Seventh regiment, Colonel Miner, of Wilkesbarre; the Eleventh, Colonel Watres, of Scranton; the Seventh, Colonel Logan, of Pittsburg; the Nineteenth and Twentieth, Colonels Bobbyshell and Leland, respectively, of Philadelphia, and the Twenty-first, Colonel Selden, of Oil City, and the Second Governor's troop Captain Meek, of Harrisburg. There were in the line the McKinley Veterans club and members of the One Hundred and Eighty-seventh Pennsylvania volunteers, the regiment with which Colonel Stone was identified during the civil war. Congressman M. E. Olmstead was chief marshall of the parade.

Senator Martin spoiled a precedent of long standing. It has always been customary for the retiring secretary of the commonwealth to ride in the carriage with the incoming and out going governors. The presence of the Martin club gave the senator a chance to escape the ride with Mr. Stone. He marched at the head of his organization. Colonel Stone and Governor Hastings led the van. The procession was lined up while the inaugural ceremonies were under way. At the executive mansion the governors reviewed the pageant.

One of the notable characters in the inauguration proceedings was the Chinese minister. He arrived yesterday with a carload of congressmen from Washington.

A platform had been built in front of the capitol, where the oath of office was administered and the inaugural address delivered. Governor-elect Stone and family were entertained at luncheon at the executive mansion yesternoon by Governor and Mrs. Hastings.

The battle for the United States senatorship is on, with prospects for a deadlock that is likely to last until after Senator Quay has been tried in Philadelphia of the charge of alleged misuse of state funds. The two houses will vote seperately this afternoon and the count of the ballots will show that, while Senator Quay has a plurality of the votes, he has not a sufficient number to insure his election. Nobody guesses how long the deadlock may continue after tomorrow's joint ballot.

—A remarkable ceremony took place at the small settlement of Trail, ten miles north of Canal Dover, Ohio, on Sunday, the 1st instant, in that four brothers were married to four sisters. The four knots were tied at the home of the four sisters, who are the daughters of a prosperous farmer named James Hochsteller. Their ages range from 18 to 28 years, and the ages of their respective husbands vary only slightly. The grooms are the four sons of Jacob Sumers, and are energetic young fellows with money in their own names. The ceremony began at noon and occupied an hour, the same clergyman performing the four marriages. Following this the wedded couples and the guests sat down to an elaborate feast. The four brothers and their sister wives will live within a stone's throw of each other.

Spaniards are Plenty.

CIENFUEGOS, January 16.—The entire military department of Santa Clara, Major General J. C. Bates, commanding, is quiet. Twenty-seven thousand Spaniards still remain in the vicinity of Cienfuegos, but one transport is now leaving and twelve others are expected to arrive at an early day. It is improbable, however, that the evacution will be completed much before the middle of February.

The Spanish troops, who are thickly quartered in the warehouses and along the wharves, swarm through the city day and night. Their officers crowd the hotels. The soldiers are poorly fed and have had no pay for months. They are quiet enough, but their continuing presence makes impossible a proper cleaning of the town and prevents activity on the part of American administration.

Six companies of the Fourth Tennessee regiment are at Trinidad, six companies at Sancti Spiritus, while the Sixth Ohio will soon be assigned to the city of Santa Clara. The Sixth Ohioans are living in tents outside of Cienfuegos and the general health of the men is excellent. The Spanish barracks in town were found in a a wretched condition and quite unsuitable; but the barracks at Santa Clara city will furnish good accommodations and there is a well equipped hospital there.

Cuban soldiers garrison the country towns in the province as well as guard the plantations, whose owners in some cases pay each soldier $6 a month. The behavior of the Cuban troops in garrison capacity was highly commended. They observe discipline and mantain perfect order.

The Cuban mayors and civil administrators in the interior towns of the departments are awaiting the advent of the American authorities. In a number of cases no communications have reached them for the latter and they are proceeding with their ordinary duties in default of instructions.

The customs receipts here are from $5,000 to $6,000 a week. The telegraphic service of the district is still in the hands of Spanish employes. Captain Rickard, United States corps, has made a requisition on Havana for operators to aid the necessary implements to establish an adequate service throughout the department, and many of the operators will be retained. General Bates, in making civil appointments, takes fitness into consideration first and then gives the preference to Cubans. The Spanish general, Aguirre, is still in charge of Cienfuegos.

The plantations of the district are resuming grinding. The distribution of government rations to the poor rather tends to demoralize them and to prevent them from seeking employment.

The public buildings in Cienfuegos are still in possession of the Spaniards and General Bates and his staff are crowded into inadequate quarters.

General Maximo Gomez is expected at Santa Clara to-day.

Getting Rid of His Knowledge.

One of those good natured persons who are always bent on imparting information was humiliated not long since. A man, apparently a yokel, was seated on a fence, intently looking at the telegraph wires. A kindly gentleman passing said:

"Watching the wires, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"Waiting to see a message go by, eh?"

The man smiled, and said. "Yes, sir."

The gentleman kindly told him that messages were invisible, and explained the work of the electric current to him at length. Concluding, he said: Now you know something about it?"

"Yes, sir."

"What do you work at?"

"Me and my mate over yonder are old telegraph workers; we're just now putting up some new wires in these parts."

Sees McKinley and Comes in Good Humor.

A $250,000 LIBRARY OFFERED

The Ironmaster Wants to Help Washington City—The Offer the Result of a Chance Meeting With President of Pub lic Library.

$10,000 A YEAR TO MAINTAIN IT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13.—Andrew Carnegie called at the White House Thursday and had a short talk with President McKinley. Just what they conferred about Mr. Carnegie would not say, but there are good grounds for the assertion that he ascertained, that the president was not pledged in favor of expansion and in fact preferred to have congress outline the policy to be followed. Anyway, Mr. Carnegie was in a pleasant humor, as though he had been the recipient of information that was satisfactory. On being asked regarding his much-discussed conference with William J. Bryan in New York Mr. Carnegie said:

"Mr. Bryan called on me, and I followed the illustrious example of President McKinley and received him courteously. He is a pleasant, brilliant man, and is sound on the vital question of the day."

As he was about to leave the White House Mr. Carnegie met B. H. Warner of Washington, a prominent busines man and president of the Washington public library. After a few moments' conversation Mr. Warner called the attention of the great ironmaster to the crying need of the nation's capital for a suitable building for the public library. Mr. Carnegie was at once interested and after making some inquiries he said:

"Mr. Warner, I will give the city of Washington $250,000 for a library building if congress will furnish the site and appropriate $10,000 annually to maintain the library."

Mr. Warner was delighted and hastened to assure Mr. Carnegie that the two conditions would be complied with. Congress would be asked to give a site, possibly the reservation at the junction of Seventh street with Pennsylvania and Louisiana avenues, and to make the necessary appropriation for maintenance.

Mr. Warner remarked that it was providential his meeting Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Carnegie replied that the favor of Providence was toward himself, in giving him this opportunity to present the city of Washington with the building. Nothing, he said, could give him greater pleasure than to make this gift, and he was delighted to learn that the opportunity was afforded him.

Mr. Carnegie said that his offer of a donation for the construction of a building for the public library in Washington had not been a long premeditated thing, but that as soon as he appreciated the need of such a building here he was delighted to be able to insure its construction.

We Must Hold the Philippines.

The unsettled condition of the Philippines gives inspiration to the opponents of the peace treaty with Spain and they are making the most of it; but when the whole story is told the trouble with Aguinaldo and his followers is a mere incident, so far as it relates to the great question of acquiring the Philippines by the ratification of the treaty. The acquisition of the territory and people of the Philippine Islands necessarily brings with it disturbances which must be suppressed by the strong power of a civilized government the speedy mastery of our government over the half-civilized people on the islands will not be doubted by any intelligent and dispassionate citizen.

England rules nearly ten times the population of England proper in India alone where there is only a fraction of one per cent. of white population in the entire East India English domain. There have been bloody rebellions against English authority, but in no other instance has civilization extended its beneficent fruits so widely as England has accomplished it in India and even little Holland, with her 5,000,000 population, rules East India possessions containing 30,000,000. There as in English East India there are rebellions, and only the last year Holland had a successful scrap with a Malay Sultan of Sumatra.

The duty of possessing and opening the way for civilizing the Philippines has been thrust upon our government as an unsought destiny and in many respects an unwelcome one; but we would forfeit the respect of our own people and the respect of the civilized world if we failed to accept the new and grave responsibility that has been put upon us and to discharge it with fidelity at any cost. As a matter of fact, it will ultimately pay largely in dollars and cents, but the higher considerations are the gradual banishment of barbarism from the richest isles of the Asiatic seas and the steady development of modern civilization.

There is one issue that is paramount in determining our duty as to the control of the Philippines. Events which were hardly conceived by the statesmanship of either England or the United States, have brought the mother country and the great republic that sprung from her people, into the closest relations. The supreme issue before the world to-day is the mastery of the Anglo-Saxon race, and there is not an interest of the United States, nor can we have any like interest that must not be the interest of England.

Without treaty or contract we have been made a unit in the great work of the future advancement of the most enlightened civilization, and there is safety to the best governments of the world only in the most complete harmony of interest and sympathy between England and the United States. This question overshadows all the others relating to our Spanish possessions in the Asiatic seas, and our government cannot entertain the question of taking any step backward since the Philippine Islands have become ours first by conquest and next by treaty with the government that has possessed them for more than three centuries.—Philadelphia Times.

EAGAN ABUSES MILES!

A Coarse Attack on the Commanding General.

CALLED A LIAR FROM EVERY PORE

The Commissary General's Attack Was Not Made in the Heat of Passion, But Read From Manuscript.

WOEFUL SPECTACLE FOR THE WORLD

WASHINGTON, January 13.—Brigadier General Charles P. Eagan, commissary of subsistence, appeared yesterday before the Dodge investigating committee and created a sensation by declaring that Major General Miles, commanding the army, "is a black liar." He said; "He lies in every hair of his head. In a published interview he lied with as black a heart as the man who blew up the Maine. Either General Miles or I should be drummed out of the American army."

Referring to the testimony of General Miles concerning the embalmed beef furnished the soldiers, General Eagan said that rigid investigation would develop that General Miles had lied from beginning to end, and he should be expelled from the army, disgraced, refused recognition in the society of decent men and be spurned by the bootblacks on the streets."

These statements were not made without due deliberation. They were read from manuscript, and they were uttered with malicious and angry emphasis. The intemperate language of the commissary general was not directed alone at General Miles, but included several newspapers which have criticised the witness. He pronounced the New York Journal as a "disreputable sheet" and a filthy one. He said that the publishers of the New York World and New York Herald "should be put into the penitentiary for treason in giving information to the enemy by purloining and publishing the military secrets of this government."

General Eagan also informed the commission that he is as good a soldier as General Miles, has seen as much frontier service and knows more about the needs of the soldiers than the commanding general. He denounced Major Black as an incompetent volunteer officer, but in this he manifested ignorance of the fact that Major Black is a veteran of the civil war, who served almost five years, made a splendid record and served on the staff of General Barlow and of General Miles a generation ago. Gen. Eagan denounced General Miles as ignorant, incompetent, unpatriotic, and as an agent of the yellow journals. He denounced Surgeon Daly, who had testified that the embalmed beef was treated with chemicals. He denounced the Board of Survey which condemned the refrigerated beef in Santiago. He denounced everybody who has criticised his administration of the commissary department.

It is a simple statement of fact that the testimony of General Eagan was chiefly denunciation, without the merit of the presentation of facts. At army headquarters yesterday afternoon one of the ablest officers on duty and a long time friend of General Miles said: "I do not believe that General Miles will take any action in this case. It is undoubtedly true that either General Miles or General Eagan should be expelled from the army, but General Miles has never been disposed to persecute or prosecute anybody. He cannot be exasperated into any course which might give his enemies in high places an opportunity to destroy him."

Defrauding a Landlord.

Judge Simonton, of Dauphin county has defined what constitutes the charge of defrauding a boarding house keeper. W. E. Mutzelbaugh was before the court on that charge. The defendant, it was testified, had no baggage in his possession when he became a boarder at the establishment. Judge Simonton decided that as he had no baggage when he became a boarder, his offence was not a criminal one and had no right to be brought up in a criminal court. The judge instructed the jury to the effect that to come into a criminal court, a boarding house keeper must have evidence that a defrauding patron had baggage and sneaked it away from the house.

The offices of council and school directors lie very close to your pocketbooks, and you want the best men of the town to fill these positions, and manage city and school affairs. Have you stopped to think that these officials handle three-fourths of all the money you pay in taxes, including what the city receives from licenses and school appropriations?—Ex.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. 'Luther Lutz.' Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottle free at F. Potts Green's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

—A humane suggestion is offered in behalf of horses, during the winter season, into the mouths of which frosted bridle bits are thrust, perhaps without a thought as to the effect. The painful result can be readily discovered by placing your own tongue or lips against a piece of cold iron or steel on a frosty morning.

Moralists may prate, and doctors prose, and science shout from the housetop, but just so long as the birds sing and the flowers bloom, and a maiden's lips are cherry-red, and a young man's eyes look love, just so long the lads and lassies will kiss—and kiss again.

And where, good men, is the harm if the kissers and kissees be healthy, and true love stands sponsor. It is only when ill-health has blasted the sweet cleanliness of youth that death lurks upon its lips. The deadly germs of dread consumption are as harmless as June-time butterflies to the young man or woman who is thoroughly clean, sweet and healthy in every fiber and tissue. The germs of disease only attack that which is already partly decayed.

There is a great medicine that is a sure and certain protection against all germs and a speedy cure for all germ diseases. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It gives youthful zest to the appetite. It corrects all faults of the digestion. It aids assimilation. It fills the blood with the vital, life-giving elements of the food. It builds sweet, clean, healthy tissues in every part of the body. It drives out all disease germs. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of bronchial, throat and lung affections if taken in time. All good medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

Mr. Jos. Henderson Dirblun, of 544 Josephine Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I was ailing for some two years, suffering from dyspepsia, a tired feeling, and loss of energy and appetite. I tried one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and found great relief. I took two more bottles, three in all, and one or two vials of the 'Pellets,' when I was in good health again. I recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to do all that it is claimed to do."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

Past and Present.

"When I was a boy," says Farm Furrows, in Iowa Homestead, "the birthday brought a whipping by everybody I knew or met; now they make presents on birthdays Then I got 'lickings' at school for making pictures; now they give rewards of merit for making them. I wore a little roundabout coat with a flabby, stuffy collar tucked up under my chin to make me uncomfortable now, school boys ars dressed in a common sense way. My hair was cut by simply placing a crock on my head and all the hair that projected below the edge of the crock was cut off, which made my head look like a tail of a French roadster; now they are cut in the latest pompadour style. Then Saturday was muster day; now it is work day. Then, we slept on real goose-feather beds; now we sleep on mattresses and springs. Then we were whipped at school for almost any trivial offense with a beech gad; now the boy has some task added to his lessons when discipline is thought to be needed. Thus it goes, and I sometimes wish I could again be a boy."

Pure Water for Dairy Cows.

Much stress is laid upon the necessity of giving the cows pure water. What is pure water? One would suppose from what some say on the subject that nothing but water freshly pumped from the well or running from a spring is fit for a cow to drink. That is just the kind of water cows do not like; they like water that is a little warm, and if it is stagnant they don't object to it. "But bacteria, microbes etc., will be found in stagnant water and will get into the milk." Exactly so, and they will not hurt the milk nor the one who drinks it. The fact is that where cows drink from a running stream, or from a pool in the field, there is no possibility of their not swallowing myrids of microscope beings, and there is not the least danger of any injury to the cow or to the users of her milk, provided there are no germs of infectious diseases in the water, and this contingency is so rare that it need alarm no one.

GRANTED A PARDON.

Charles E. Cleary Released from the Penitentiary.

Charles E. Cleary, who was serving a life sentence in the western penitentiary, was Wednesday afternoon granted a pardon by the pardon board. The man's father, Michael Cleary, left Renovo Wednesday night for Allegheny to meet hisson upon his release from the penitentiary. They will return to Renovo.

Charles E. Cleary was serving his sentence for shooting Policeman Paul at Renovo several years ago. He was sentenced to be hanged, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Cleary's conduct in the penitentiary was all that could be desired During the last few years his health became impaired and his eyesight was affected. Recently his friends circulated a petition asking for his pardon. The petition set forth the foregoing statements and also that it was deemed that the long term of imprisonment that he had served was sufficient punishment for the crime. The petition also stated that the parents of Cleary were growing old and that his assistance would be of great benefit to them. Attorney Kress and C. S. McCormick made pleas for the man's pardon at the last regular session of the board, and the case was held under advisement. Wednesday when the board met it was decided to recommend that a pardon be granted.

The official records show that Cleary was convicted of murder in the first degree May 2, 1891. The case was carried to the supreme court, a new trial was granted, and on October 26, 1891, was sentenced by the court to be hanged. The case was then carried to the board of pardons, when the sentence was changed to life imprisonment. Cleary has been in the penitentiary over seven years.—Lock Haven Democrat.

—Evangelistic meetings began in the Court house on Monday evening and will continue for ten days or two weeks, Rev. Charles Inglis is conducting them. A Chicago paper thus speaks of him:

Rev. Charles Inglis, of London is speaking in Willard Hall with great power. He told with great force of the traveler at night knocking at the toll gate, a voice in the distance said: "I'm coming." He knocked again and again, each time hearing that voice "I'm coming." At last the old toll gatekeeper came and he was asked with loud voice. "What do you mean by saying 'I'm coming' and yet you delay so long? The old man replied, "I have been gatekeeper for many years and I have gotten so that now in my sleep when I hear a rap I say 'I'm coming,' but sleep right on." Ah, friends! Is not that the way with many of us? The Lord knocks at the door of our hearts and we say, "Coming Lord," but we lie in our lethargy. "Awake, thou that sleepest, arise from thy slumber; the Lord calleth and hath need of thee."

—At the Musical College, Freeburg, Snyder county, Pa., none but the best methods are used so that today it is recognized as one of the foremost schools of music in the country. $33 will pay for a term of six weeks, instruction and board. Spring Term will begin May. 8.

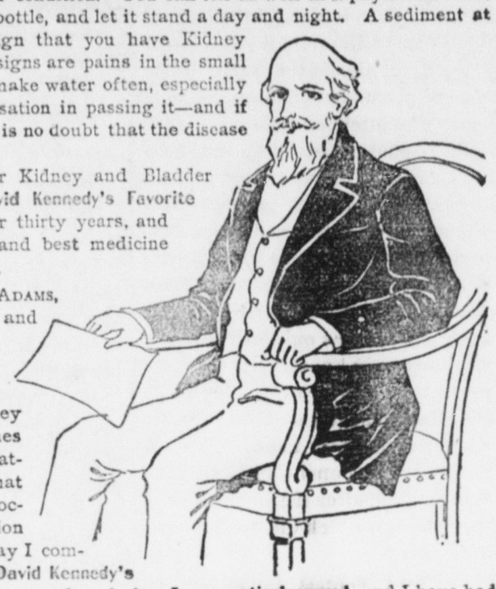
How to Prolong Life

No man or woman can hope to live long if the Kidneys, Bladder, or Urinary Organs are diseased. Disorders of that kind should never be neglected. Don't delay in finding out your condition. You can tell as well as a physician. Put some urine in a glass or bottle, and let it stand a day and night. A sediment at the bottom is a sure sign that you have Kidney disease. Other certain signs are pains in the small of the back—a desire to make water often, especially at night—a scalding sensation in passing it—and if urine stains linen there is no doubt that the disease is present.



There is a cure for Kidney and Bladder Diseases. It is Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. It has been for thirty years, and is today, the greatest and best medicine known for these troubles.

Mr. WILLIAM W. ADAMS, cor. Jefferson Avenue and Clifton Street, Rochester, N. Y., says:—

"Three years ago I was taken with Kidney disease very badly; at times I was completely prostrated; in fact, was so bad that a day was set for the doctors to perform an operation upon me. Upon that day I commenced the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and it was not long before I was entirely cured, and I have had no return of the trouble since. My weight has increased, and I never was so well as I am now. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy saved my life."

Favorite Remedy acts directly upon the Kidneys, Liver and Blood. In cases of Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Ulcers, Old Sores, Blood Poisoning, Bright's Disease and Female Troubles it has made cures after all other treatments failed. It is sold for $1.00 a bottle at drug stores. A teaspoonful is a dose.

In the Klondike.

The Canistoe, N. Y., Times, of recent date, contains the following letter from the Klondyke:

"I have one claim recorded, on Fresno creek, twenty miles north of city, and fractional interests in six others. One is a one-eighth interest of 4-5 of a quartz claim on Ronanza, west side of mountain 1,300x660, opposite No. 1 creek claim, below discovery claim. Quartz has been analyzed and carries gold. Of course, do not know yet what they will amount to, but will prospect this winter.

"Think I could get work this winter a $10 a day; wages are seventy-five cents to $1.50 an hour. In the city there are fifty idle men for every job.

"Dawson city is on the east bank of the Yukon river, which is about the size of the Mississippi there, but a great deal swifter; the steamers have to use powerful engines. The Klondyke river comes in from the east, south side of the city. Klondyke City is south and across the Klondyke river from here. Can best describe Dawson by citing Bradford, Pa., in her palmy days; dance houses, gambling places, saloons and all. About twenty large warehouses and they are filled with goods of all kinds. Sidewalks and streets blocked with piles of grub covered with canvas in places. There are at least 20,000 people in the city and mines. Many went back this summer, sad and discouraged. I believe this country will be developed next year, if at all, as there are thousands of prospect holes going down.

"The ground is frozen the year around, but thaws in the summer from 2 to 5 feet according to the soil. Holes are dug by building fires and thawing the ground, then dig out the dirt, fire and thaw again. There are six sawmills, planing mill, sash and door works, an electric light plant, a steam fire engine, two chemical engines, hook and ladder company, but no organized fire company yet. There will soon, probably, be incorporation, which is needed, as there's bad management. No improvements, no sewerage, drainage, etc. Probably 200 or more cases of typhoid fever, caused, I suppose by drinking the foul water."

THE enlarged opportunities of the lawmaking portion of this nation throws increased burdens and responsibilities upon those vested with authority. Instead, therefore, of seeking to cavil and find fault with the President and those recognized as leaders in shaping and moulding public sentiment, the conservative, thinking portion, irrespective of party, should endeavor to advise and assist in advancing a line of policy calculated to strengthen and build up, where such a course is indicated by wholesome signs. The complications arising in the Philippines already are ominous of evil. It is hoped, however, that those who are now raising the flag rebellion will be brought to a sense of their duty, and help bring order out of chaos and establish a government tending to benefit and bless the races of men who have been groping in darkness and ignorance without any ray of hope. If these benighted people are ever lifted up and given a chance to develope and become useful, it must come under the strength of wholesome training by a power strong enough to educate and elevate them in the scale of living.

Catarrh and Colds Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes.

EDITORIAL.

IN old England you can get a shave for four cents, hair cut for eight cents, and a telegram for twelve cents. Assuredly, old England beats us on the price of some things.

THE announcement is made that the murders in the United States last year were about 2,000 below the number in 1897. This is encouraging, although the red streak is still too broad.

THE laws and the treaties of the United States at present prevent this country from discriminating in favor of American ships in the foreign trade. All the world's shipping stands on an equality with American shipping in the carrying of American foreign commerce, and the policy has almost wiped out our shipping in that trade. But Cuba can give substantial and enduring aid to American shipping, and materially advance her own interests, we are sure, by making it a part of her law when she comes to enact it, that there shall be such a discrimination in Cuban ports in favor of American ships, in the bringing there or the taking from there cargoes from or intended for the United States, as to practically give our ships a monopoly of that trade.

Nelson Dingley, Jr.

The announcement that Congressman Dingley, of Maine, is dead while not wholly unexpected is an event that will be received with wide-spread sorrow. Even Mr. Dingley's most inveterate political enemies will concede that he was an honest man and a sincere patriot. They may have differed from him in a very radical way, but they believed that he was sincere.

Mr. Dingley entered politics in his youth, becoming editor of the Lewiston Journal in 1856, a position which he held for over forty years. He was a member of the legislature of Maine, governor of the state, has been a member of congress since 1881, having been chosen at a special election in September of that year to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Hon. William P. Frye to the United States senate. For a number of years he was chairman of the committee on ways and means and the republican leader on the floor of the house. He was the author of the tariff law now in force.

In the death of Mr. Dingley his native state sustains a severe loss and so does the country. He was an active and ardent republican, but he was not so narrow a partisan as to seek the good of his party at the public's expense. His tariff views were identical with those held by the party of which he was so useful and distinguished a member, and are especially popular in Pennsylvania

WHILE the next congress will be called upon to dispose of Polygamist Roberts, concerning whom the newspapers of Pennsylvania have had a good deal to say, the Pennsylvania legislature has now in its fold one member beside whom Roberts is a saint, if all that decent people and prominent ministers of Pennsylvania say is half true. The individual to whom we refer is Theodore Stulb, of the Twelfth ward, Philadelphia, who was asked to resign his position of health officer of Philadelphia by Governor Hastings because of open, long-continued, flagrant and disgusting immorality. Barring the fact that he has three wives whom he married before the anti-polygamy acts became law, and whom he refuses to abandon now. Roberts appears to be a respectable citizen. Of cours congress should turn him out. At the same time the state legislature should rid itself of Theodore Stulb whose offenses against good morals seem to have been so gross that reputable citizens should not associate with him The ministers who asked the legislature to turn him out are simply doing their duty if he is half as black as they paint him. And the inhabitants of Pennsylvania who have had their souls stirred to indignation by the attempts of a polygamist to break into congress should rise up and insist upon the retirement from their own law-making body of a much worse man.—Tribune.

WHILE foreign ships have been excluded from participation in the domestic carrying trade of the United States, there has never been a time when the supply of vessels was not equal to this domestic demand, showing that a policy of exclusiveness is not inconsistent with efficient readiness in the matter of construction, at least. It is a well known fact that the rates of transportation by water within the United States are less than in any country in the world, which is conclusive evidence of the economic soundness of the policy of complete exclusion of foreign shipping from that carrying.

IF General Eagan had been wise before he gave that now famous testimony it is barely possible the country would have been spared that sensation. And yet it may not be so. If Eagan is permitted to remodel his testimony and if, after the revised version has been handed in, the war department concludes to ignore his scurrilous talk about General Miles, he will have accomplished his original purpose, and that without any personal disadvantage.

RECENT tragic events in the east admonish all prudent citizens to deal circumspectly with eatables or stimulents sent by anonymous "admirers."

Meekison of Ohio

Has Been Greatly Benefited by Pe-ru-na.

Congressman D. Meekison of Ohio, writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.

DEAR SIR:—I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na and feel greatly benefited thereby. I have been afflicted with catarrh of the head and feel encouraged to believe that continued use of Pe-ru-na will fully eradicate a disease of thirty years' standing.

HON. D. MEEKISON.

Yours sincerely,
D. MEEKISON.

The continued receipt of endorsements like this for Dr. Hartman's great catarrh remedy, prove its value beyond question. Men of prominence everywhere are recognizing the merit of Pe-ru-na and are willing to give expression to their judgment because a certain, absolute cure for catarrh is a public good. All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

The new year has not made a flattering start in its record of railroad accidents, a number of which have been of the head collision kind.

While it is true that the number of railroad accidents is comparatively small when the extent of the railroad business of the coutnry is considered, this fact furnishes no excuse for collision of the kind noted,

They have been growing less frequent, through block signals and other precautions, but they should vanish altogether.

THE federal senate will discuss the treaty of peace behind closed doors. Certain matter may be broached that affect the relations of our government to the continental powers. And while secrets usually leak out of the executive session yet so long as the official proceedings are withheld there is no ground for offense. The quieter senators keep, the less they say about the treaty in public, the better.

DOUBLE DEALING.

Is the Cause of Many Heart Burnings—A Bellefonte Case That of the Opposite.

Double dealing like so many other expressions of the Anglo-Saxon language has different meanings. The text or heading does not refer to the deceitful, hypocritical specimens of manhood who curry favor for their own ends and keep the community in a ferment by retailing scraps of confidence. This time 'tis the double dealing of the little conqueror Doan's Kidney Pills—to be more correct—the double healing. One member of a family tests them and like disease the infection spreads—another tries them—the result is the same, a cure. Read the statement that follows, made by

Mr. Curtis Johnson, of 583 Bishop street, freight and truckman, who says: "I had backache and lameness across my loins for a year or more. At times the lameness was so acute I could lift nothing and if I stooped it was impossible for me to straighten up. When driving there was a steady aching over my kidneys the whole time and I had a dull, tired feeling which took away all my ambition. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from F. Potts Green's drug store and they soon freed me from the whole combination of troubles and they did it quickly and thoroughly. My wife was also suffering from a tiresome grinding backache and she used Doan's Kidney Pills and they invigorated her generally. She now speaks of them as highly as I do. We never came across any remedy which surpassed Doan's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Millburn Co., Buffalo. N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

MR. HOAR, of Massachusetts, is in favor of giving the Philippines to their inhabitants. On Saturday he offered a resolution to that effect, and asked for its immediate adoption. It was laid over, however, and there is no immediate prospect that it will be adopted.

—A frame dwelling at Woodland, Clearfield county, was burned a few mornings ago together with its contents. Walter Rolles and family who occupied the house had a narrow escape, having to flee in their night clothes. Mr Rolles while trying to secure money and valuables was severely burnt about the face and neck.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.
Washington, Jan. 16th, 1899.

Nobody realizes more fully than President McKinley that the revirsion of his testimony, eliminating the blackguardism does not condone the disgraceful conduct of Gen. Eagan in personally abusing Gen. Miles, his superior officer—conduct which was aggravated by the furnishing to the Press Associations of advance type-written copies of the Billingsgate before it was uttered in the presence of the War Investigating Commission, but that revirsion will at least remove the dirty stuff from the official record. What else is to be done is yet to be determined, but it seems to be reasonably certain that something else will be done and quickly.

The Senate will this week amend and pass the Morgan bill for the construction of the Nicaragua Canal and if the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce would drop the bunch of Canal bills it is wrestling with, and report the Morgan bill, even with a few amendments, there would be a reasonable certainty of its becoming a law at this session. But, if that Committee reports an entirely new measure, as all the secret opponents of the Canal wish it to do, and as it seems likely to do, the chance of getting it through will certainly not be encouraging. It is either the Morgan bill or no bill at this session.

Gen. Otis and Admiral Dewey, who certainly ought to know better than anybody else, do not expect a conflict with the Philippine insurgents. In their official reports to the Government, they say that they have perfect control of the situation in and around Manila, and that they are gradually succeeding in making the rank and file of the insurgents understand that Americans are their best friends, not their enemies, as Aguinaldo has recently been trying to make them believe. As soon as that task is accomplished, the rest will be easy. Things will move faster over there after the treaty has been ratified.

All sorts of arguments are being advanced in all sorts of ways to arouse opposition to the acquisition of the Philippines by the U. S. One of the most unique being the offer of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, to pay from his own bank account, the $20,000,000 the treaty of peace calls for, if President McKinley will withdraw our soldiers and war ships and allow the Philippines to govern themselves. That offer is buncomb pure and simple. There are no circumstances under which the offer could be accepted, and nobody knows that any better than Mr. Carnegie. By the treaty of Peace, the Philippines pass from Spain, their recognized owner, to the U. S., which will be held responsible by the nations of the world for the protection of the interests of their citizens in the islands. Whatever may be decided upon, after we have learned more about the islands, the assumption of the sovereignty over them by the U. S. is a present duty that cannot be shirked.

Representative Berry, of Ky., is not with the "aunties," as may be seen by the following, from a speech made by him: "While I have not in my own mind yet concluded what is best to be done with the new and beautiful country, down under the Equator, called the Philippine Islands, as much as may be said by the people who occupy it, I am ready to listen to suggestions and to hear from men like Dewey and men like Otis, and others that are there representing the U. S., what their conclusions are as to the best course of the government of the U. S. towards these people, and having heard that to give it and other circumstances full consideration. But I do not propose, in spite of that treacherous scoundrel, Aguinaldo,—that scoundrel who was brought in a ship of Dewey's from Hong Kong to Manila—even in spite of the German Empire, to stop one moment in forming my conclusion as to what are the interests of the U. S, even if it involves the fact that we shall have to whip Germany as we did Spain."

Death can certainly be accused of having been partial to the New England delegation in Congress, when it strikes down so close together two such prominent men as Senator Morrill and Representative Dingley. The funeral of Mr. Dingley took place to-day, in the hall of the House of Representatives, in the presence of almost the same audience of prominent officials and persons, who attended the recent funeral of Senator Morrill, in the Senate Chamber. Mr. Dingley was not an orator, but he was a statesman of hard, horse sense, and wide experience, whose advice was always welcome in the highest republican councils, and usually followed. He knew the tariff as only half a dozen men have ever known it, and the present tariff, which bears his name, is a monument to the good use to which he put his knowledge. A joint Congressional Committee left Washington, after the funeral with the remains, which will be interred in Maine.

The first contest in connection with the treaty of Peace was over the motion to consider it with open doors. There was no doubt of the fate of the motion at any time, as some of the strongest opponents of secret executive sessions had in former contests especially excepted treaties as the one thing that should be considered secretly.

The Blessing of Laughter.

Some one has said that a sense of the ludicrous and the faculty of laughter are the most useful parts of our nature. Laughter is essentially a social, a sympathetic and a contagious power. Some nations, particularly the Orientals, are said never to laugh; but all European nations have been great laughers, and the ludicrous has played an important part even in their history. By means of laughter, absolute monarchs have been controlled, and even Demos, himself, has been made to laugh at his own follies till he was almost shamed into good sense Quackeries, hypocrisies and affectations of all kinds have been exposed and suppressed, and the reformation was promoted, by the united efforts of reason and ridicule The sense of the ludicrous and of the pathetic have their sources not far from each other in the highest part of our nature.

A good laugh, periodically administered, would excite those sympathetic feeling and genial dispositions, which are most needed for regenerating our mortal system. Then men whom we have sent home laughing would have experienced an hour's pleasure without fear of misgiving at the time and without remorse or reaction afterwards."—Detroit Free Press.

One of the larger business houses in the United States, doing a tremendous mail-order business, says to its customers at a distance: "Do not lick stamps and attach to letters of inquiry, as at some future date we may want to use them, and the government foolishly requires a whole stamp." It is one of the questions of the hour—how to send postage stamps without sticking them to the letter. If licked on one corner, that corner is gone, unless the paper and stamps are soaked, in which case the latter, when it drops off, must be dried between blotting papers and remucilaged. All this requires time and trouble.

A few thoughtful persons with hours and hours to burn to whom object is no time, as the reversed phrase goes, make two slits in the letter and place the stamp under neath the strip, which is an excellent plan though antique.

An Incident of Driving in Hawaii

From the Pacific Commercial Advertiser.

Senator Henry Waterhouse has just had a thrilling experience in the quicksands of Niu. He was driving in that district with a Portuguese servant. The senator took his team to far makai, and the horses went down in the sand till only their heads and shoulders were in sight. The rig sank till only half wheels were in view. By his usual coolness the senator managed, after much toil to get his rig, the horses the frightened Portuguese boy and himself out of the dangerous place.

The senator is now in favor of having danger signals displayed at quicksand pits.

OLD IRON MILLS AS JUNK.

Old syle mills that cannot compete with modern concerns are rapidly being transformed into old junk in Eastern Pennsylvania. This is notably the case at the once busy iron town of Catasauqua. From 1878 to 1890, the golden years of prosperity for that valley, the Catasauqua did the largest business in the manufacture of merchant iron east of the Alleghenies. Then discord came in the shape of a strike that lasted 15 months. The employes lost, and the iron borough never recovered from the blow. More than 600 men lost their situations, it cost the company more than $30,000 and the bitterness engenderd exists to this day.

It was a strike marked by benevolence and bloodshed.

Looking to-day at those cold silent, dilapidated mills, now in the hands of junk dealers, it is hard to believe that they once roared and hummed with the busy current of financial prosperity and activity.

The output in 1882 was over 36,000 tons of finished iron, valued at about $2,000,000. The average, monthly payroll was over $78,000.

A few days ago the trustees for the bondholders sold mills A and C to Bald & Co., of Philadelphia, for 16,000, and the lot at Front and Walnut streets and 26 dwelling houses in Puddler's row to Jacob Soberts for 5,300. The mills were of frame and are respectfully 198x236 and 53x147 feet in size.—Lancaster Examiner.

THAT "where there's a will there's a way" will probably find further illustration in the case of Brigham H. Roberts, the congressman-elect from Utah, who has three wives living. Though Roberts is a Democrat in politics it is but fair to state that his political affiliations are not considered outside of Utah by those who object to his being given a seat in congress, Democrats and even Mormons protesting against it. There seems to be no reason to doubt that Roberts was duly elected, but the moral sense of the country objected to seating him, and means will doubtless be found to conform to this decided weight of public sentiment. Meanwhile there is a let up in the petitions against Roberts sent to the present congress, which is not the one that will deal with his case.

SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE of Massachusetts, who has served one term in the federal senate, has been renominated by the republicans and will be re elected. Senator Lodge is not quite as good a senator always as Massachusetts has a right to demand, but advancing years will probably abate rashness, broaden understanding, increase wisdom and clarify his vision. As a writer of books the senator is an honor to his state and to American literature.

RUMOR says that Great Britain would be very willing to exchange her West Indies for the Philippine group. Many Americans would favor the exchange, and it is said the scheme has encountered no opposition in England. By this arrangement we would round out our possessions in the Atlantic and get rid of several very intricate problems.

Terrible Itching Sores Break Out, Preventing Rest Night or Day—How Relief Was Found.

"I have been troubled for many years with itching sores on my face and hands. I could not rest night or day and the medicine I took did not relieve me, although I tried everything I could hear of. My husband one day got me a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began taking it with the very best results. I have taken seven bottles and am now cured." MRS. JAMES MCLAIN, Mount Arlington, N. J.

"Last winter I broke out with sores on my face. They were as large as a five cent piece. I heard people say so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla that I determined to try it. In a week after I began taking it the sores commenced to heal, and in a short time they were entirely cured." ARTHUR G. TUNISON, Karrsville, N. J.

DISH OUT THE TAFFY.

When free trade was the whole of the Democratic gospel the organs of that party in this country thought that never before Cleveland's time had such a great man appeared; but when he refused to endorse the wild Bryan platform they treated him as though he were about the most worthless of all men in public life and retired him with corresponding epitaphs at the close of his term as president. Now Cleveland and Bryan are again together on the question of the hour—opposed to expansion—and these same organs to keep up their wanted custom, must again lend the old man at Princeton.

THE Military committee of which Senator Hawley is Chairman, has not yet taken up the question of army reorganization and does not propose to do so until the bill reported from the House committee comes over to the Senate. It will then be very materially modified and sent to conference. The outlook is that the Senate will not agree to an increase of the army beyond 80,000 men, and that the reorganization of the staff departments will be insisted upon, with provisions which will not permit the overslaughing of regular army officers by civilian appointments, who have had a hundred days experience in the late war. The members of the Senate Military Committee have informally canvassed the subject of army reorganization, and believe that a bill will pass Congress before the present session closes,

A Terrible Day.

The little woman was greatly flustered. "I've had an awful time," said she, as soon as the husband arrived home. "The clothes line broke, the baby choked on a tack until he was blue, the cat got her head fast in the cream pitcher and we had to break it off—the pitcher I mean—the grocery boy sassed Mary Jane till she cried and tried to scald him, but missed him, and took all the hair off the dog, and I burned my thumb to a crisp, and nearly every woman I know on earth took this day of all others to call."

Must Pay Their Own Expenses

A decision of the McKean county courts that the commissioners must refund the $3.50 per day they each received for expenses while attending the state convention, as well as other moneys paid them for railroad fare and hotel bills while away from the county seat on official business will have a far reaching effect. The court stated that the law does not provide for such expenses.

Wife To Hang Her Husband.

Sheriff George A. Storr, of Utah county, Utah, left Gouverneur, N. Y., Thursday for home accompained by Mrs Jennie Wrighte, in an endeavor to clear up a murder mystery and to free, if possible, a man from a life sentence. At the Pelican Point Ranch, Utah, in 1895, three young men were shot down one night in their ranch house.

Their bodies were found sunk in Utah Lake, and the premises they had occupied were looted. Haynes, the father-in-law of one was convicted on circumstantial evidence and was sentence to be hanged, but the sentenced was commuted to life imprisonment.

A short time after the crime a man by the name of George W. Wright left that locality, drifting to Fresh Water, Col. He was a graduate of Kalamazoo (Mich.) Law college. He soon became prominent bearing the sobriquet of "King of Fresh Water." One morning a man with whom Wright was at odds was found shot to pieces in his cabin, Wright assisted at the coroner's inquest, and wrote out the verdict of "murder by a person unknown"

Later Wright became involved in a questionable sheep deal, and, after being arrested jumped his bail. He visited his wife at her parents' home at Gouverneur and then disappeared Evidence of a positive character relating to the murder at Fresh Water is said to have been found against Wright, and, after working on the case for over a year Chief Harder elicited a confession from Mrs. Wright to the effect that her husband had goods which figured in the Pelican Point murders.

Mrs. Wright said she is willing to testify against her husband for the triple crime, providing he can be caught. She says her lips have previously been sealed through fear of him.

Mice in the Pumpkin.

Aided by the rich output from an active waterspout, George Archer was able to produce the biggest pumpkin grown in Maine this season. At the fairs where it was exhibited recently it was awarded $27 in cash prizes, and Mr Archer carried home blue ribbons enough to start a millinery store. Everybody who saw the pumpkin wanted some of the seed, but Archer feeling that his native town demanded his loyalty refused to sell, telling the would-be purchasers that he had agreed to donate the pumpkin, seed and all to the village church, which would hold a pumpkin pie sociable at which time the seeds would be sold to the highest bidder, the proceeds to go to the minister.

The sociable was held in Nov. More than 400 persons attended, some of them coming from Kennebec County in order to bid on the pumpkin seed. When the meeting had been called to order and the minister had offered prayer Mr. Archer, started to carve the pumpkin with a big stick knife. He opened it with two strokes, and as he laid the hemispheres down upon a table a nest of lively mice scampered away among the audience, causing the women to leap on top of the pews and making an animated scene for several minutes.

The mice had not only spoiled the pumpkin for purposes of pie, but they had eaten up all of the precious pumpkin seed, for which the owner had been offered $50 cash.

Archer was bitterly disappointed. So were all those in the audience.

SENATE AND HOUSE!

The Bodies Meet and Transact Business.

SESSIONS WERE VERY BRIEF

David Martin, of Philadelphia, was Also One of Those Who was Sworn In—He Received Boquets.

ALL TOOK IN THE INAUGURATION

HARRISBURG, January 18.—Both houses held brief sessions prior to the inaugural ceremonies and the balloting for United States senator.

Walter Lyon presided over the senate for the last time as lieutenant governor. David Martin took the oath of office as senator from the Eighth district. The Philadelphia leader was the recipient of a large bunch of carnations and roses from the employes of the state department. A committee was appointed to escort J. P. S. Gobin, lieutenant governor-elect, to the senate chamber for the purpose of being inducted into office and recess for an hour was taken.

At 12:30 o'clock General Gobin, lieutenant governor-elect, took the oath of office. A throng of spectators, many of whom were women, were present. Judge Simonton, of Dauphin county, administered the oath of office, after which Mr. Gobin said:

"I hope that the same generous feeling that has prevailed for your presiding officers may continue. Let us resolve to do our utmost for the people of this commonwealth. Let us look after their interests and their interests alone.

"I extend to the senators and the citizens of this state my thanks for the high honor they have conferred upon me. I will earnestly endeavor to be just and impartial, and my hope is that sound and righteous legislation will prevail and that when the session is over we may look back and say we have done our best for the people."

In the house Messrs. Snyder, of Luzerne, and Clark, of Washington, presented themselves and qualified. The oath was administered by Judge McPherson.

Mr. Voorhees, of Philadelphia, offered a resolution that a committee of two members be appointed to conduct the senate to the portico of the capitol to attend the inaugural ceremonies.

Chief Clerk Rex announced the appointment of William M. Culbertson, of Pittsburg, as journal clerk. Mr. Culbertson was sworn in by Speaker Farr.

The committee reported that it had escorted the senate to the capitol portico, after which the house adjourned to attend the ceremonies.

Mason Turned the Joke.

Senator William E. Mason has several friends in the life insurance business, and occasionally these gentlemen have tried to talk business to him. The senator always put them off by telling the latest funny story, and in time they came to understand that he was a hopeless case and did not care to take any more insurance. The most eloquent and adroit solicitors had tried their arts on him in vain.

Not long ago an insurance solicitor came to Chicago from the east and associated himself with a firm in which are two of Senator Mason's friends. The new man was very willing and ambitious and perhaps a trifle forward, and so the members of the firm decided to have a little fun with him.

One of them went to the new man and said: "I notice by the morning papers that Senator Mason has come back from Washington. Now, I don't believe he carries very much insurance, and I think if you go over and have a little talk with him you can write a policy for him."

The new man was on the alert in a minute, says the Chicago Record. He went to the senator's law office and waited there until Mr. Mason appeared. Then he cornered him and began to talk.

"Hold on," said the senator. 'Who told you to come over and see me?"

The solicitor mentioned the names.

"I thought so. Well, my friend, they have been playing a joke on you. In the first place they're not anxious to insure me, because I'm too fat to be a good risk, and, in the second place, they know that I've turned down all the solicitors who come around here. They're pretty good jokers, but I think we can turn the joke. I've been thinking the matter over, and I've decided that I need a little more insurance after all. You may send in my application for a $10,000 policy."

When the new solicitor went back to the office and calmly handed in the senator's application the two jokers fainted.

THE FORCE OF INSTINCT.

Several Northumberland pitmen who were waiting to hear the result of a pigeon homing contest began to discuss the merits of various well-known breeds of pigeons. One of the miners said he knew an instance of a young pigeon that had never flown having been taken to Carlisle, a distance of about sixty-five miles, yet the first time it was liberated it came straight home.

"That's nowt!" exclaimed a well known authority. "Asa yence dowt twe eggs fra a chep in Edinburgh and ah put 'em under ma best hen. As syum as ivvor they wor hatched an' flown they went straight as an arrow back tiv And Reekle."—From the San Francisco Wave.

SACRIFICED FOR HIS COUNTRY

There are many Poles in this country who will be sorry to hear of the suicide of that Count Regalinki, who devoted the whole of his once enormous fortune to relieving the necessities of fellow-countrymen at home and abroad, and who especially after the great insurrection of the poles in the early sixties, furnished many thousands of them with the means to emigrate to America, and to establish themselves in this country.

His entire property, as well as that of his wife, who, as Countess Skorzewski, was a great heiress, has been spent in relieving the necessities of poles at home and abroad, and he has now blown out his brains at his castle of Krolikobo, near Schubin, in consequence of financial embarassment.

COLONEL STONE TAKES HIS SEAT

The New Governor Installed With Appropriate Ceremonies.

QUAY'S ELECTION CERTAIN.

Bolting Republicans Severely Denounced by the Executive Committee of the State Committee—A Gordon-Wanamaker Scheme Fails.

(Special Correspondence.)

Harrisburg, Jan. 17.—The inauguration of Colonel William A. Stone today as governor of Pennsylvania completes another grand triumph for stalwart Republicanism in this commonwealth. The occasion has brought thousands of citizens here from every section of the state. The city is beautifully decorated and the inaugural ceremonies were surrounded with all the solemnity befitting the importance of the event. There has been a grand turn out of the militia, nearly 5,000 men being in line, including all the new regiments formed since the breaking out of the war with Spain. Congressman M. E. Olmstead was chief marshal of the parade. Besides the National Guardsmen there was a delegation in line composed of veterans of the One Hundred and Eighty-seventh Pennsylvania volunteers, the regiment in which Colonel Stone served in the civil war. They were applauded all along the route as they marched as a special escort to the incoming governor. Among the political clubs in line were the Penrose club, Harmer club, United Republican Association of the Twenty-ninth ward, the W. R. Leeds' association and the David Martin club of Philadelphia. A reception was given at the executive mansion in the evening by Governor Stone, which was largely attended.

BOLTERS TAKEN TO TASK.

With the installation of the new governor attention is directed to the United States senatorship. Governor Stone is deeply interested in the canvass for the re-election of Senator Quay. He recognizes him as the nominee of the Republican party through the action of the party caucus. In this connection it would appear that there is but one sentiment among the men at the head of the Republican organization in the state. At a meeting of the executive committee of the Republican state committee (which is composed of prominent and active Republicans residing in different sections of the state, the following address was adopted calling upon the Republican members of the legislature to stand by the action of the joint senatorial caucus in naming Colonel Quay as the party's candidate for the United States senatorship:

"To the Republican members of the general assembly: As the official representatives of the Republican party of Pennsylvania, charged with the duty of furthering and maintaining the best interests of the state organization, we appeal to every Republican member of both branches of the legislature to stand by and support the action of the party caucus, held on the 3d inst., in unanimously indorsing Matthew Stanley Quay as a candidate for re-election to the United States senate.

"That caucus was called by the regular officials, recognized by the usages of the party, in the manner and at the time sanctioned by custom and precedent. The proceedings were in every way orderly and regular, and in accordance with Republican rules and regulations.

"Every Republican state senator and representative occupies his seat in the general assembly as the result of similar caucus action, primary elections, district and county conventions and caucuses being parts and elements in the great organization which has made the Republican party paramount and omnipotent in Pennsylvania today.

"Any man who, coming here as a representative and offspring of any section of this organization, ignores and sets himself in opposition to any other section or part of the same organization, puts a premium upon party disloyalty, aids in bringing about political anarchy instead of organized regularity, and invites a local revolution against himself in the event of his being a candidate for re-election at the expiration of his term.

"Senator Quay having been declared to be the regular Republican nominee for re-election to the senate, it is incumbent upon every Republican senator and representative in the general assembly to give him his support when the official ballot shall be taken next week.

"Senator Quay has not only represented the material interests of this commonwealth in the senate with brilliancy and extraordinary zeal, but he has also attained a high position in the councils of the party, state and national. His return to the august body of which he has been such a conspicuous member cannot fail to redound to the best interests of the commonwealth and of the Republican party.

"In this connection we cannot refrain from protesting against the course pursued by certain persons, who, though claiming to be Republicans, have devoted their best endeavors toward disrupting the party and defeating its candidates. We refer particularly to John Wanamaker, who during the late campaign not only refused to aid or contribute to the Republican state committee, but traversed the state from one end to the other, seeking to defeat our gallant standard bearer, Colonel William A. Stone. Though unsuccessful in his endeavor, he has the assurance to invade the capital of the state, and seeks to control the action of the Republican legislature. We denounce his presumption, as well as that of his attorney, James Gay Gordon, who, having been repudiated by the Democratic party as an aspirant for the governorship, now visits Harrisburg, and in conjunction with his chief seeks to dictate the course of procedure of the two great parties.

"We call upon the Republican members of the two houses to repudiate this officious interference with their prerogatives, and urge them to stand by and sustain the action of their party's representatives in caucus assembled in accordance with party laws and usages.

"On behalf of the executive committee of the Republican state committee,
"WILLIAM CONNELL, Chairman.
"JAMES S. McKEAN, Secretary."

There is no doubt that this address has made a profound impression upon the Republicans of Pennsylvania. They begin to realize the serious position in which the party is placed by the action of the bolters. That the Republicans of the legislature who refuse to accept the decision of two-thirds of the Republican membership of the general assembly do so in defiance of the sentiment of a great mass of the Republican voters is apparent from the reports that are received here.

WANAMAKER SCHEME BLOCKED.

The action of the Democratic caucus in placing in the field as a candidate for United States senator George A. Jenks, their late nominee for governor, was a complete knock out for former Judge Gordon, who sought to work the caucus in the interest of the Wanamaker bolting Republicans. Colonel Guffey stepped in and took command of the situation. He did quick work in upsetting the Gordon-Wanamaker plans to pull the Democracy in the interest of the Philadelphia millionaire. Many of the party leaders wanted Colonel Guffey to stand as the Democratic nominee for senator, but he declined in favor of George Jenks. The Gordon men turned in for Chauncey Black, but he only polled 14 votes to 65 for Jenks, and Jenks was then declared to be the caucus nominee. The Guffeyites defeated a resolution presented by the Gordon men, which rad:

"Whereas, It has come to our knowledge that an effort may be made in the case of the absence of members from the joint assembly to select a United States senator by a minority thereof, therefore,

"Resolved, That the Democratic members of the general assembly hereby pledge themselves to each other and to their constituents to attend punctually and regularly upon each meeting of the joint convention for the election of a United States senator, and to report therein at all times for the nominee of this caucus, and in case of inability to be present from illness or other unavoidable cause to promptly notify the steering committee."

The Guffey men declared that they did not propose to have their Democracy questioned. The Gordon scheme has been to fuse with the bolting Republicans and elect Wanamaker, after they would make a show of being for a Democrat. As between two Republicans, most of the Guffey men would go to Quay rather than Wanamaker or any one of the bolting Republican element, in the event of it being demonstrated that a Democrat cannot be elected. The Gordonites are fighting mad and are using the Wanamaker newspapers to attack Guffey.

All this racket will help Senator Quay. The balloting for United States senator began today in each branch of the legislature. The joint convention of members of both the senate and the house on the United States senatorship will not, however, be held until tomorrow, when the real test of strength will take place.

There can be no doubt of Senator Quay's re-election.

DINGLEY DEAD !

The Distinguished Representative Passes Away.

GREAT JOURNALIST AND STATESMAN

Was Governor of Maine and Later Went to Congress, being a Member Since the Year 1881.

HE HAD BEEN ILL FOR SOME TIME

WASHINGTON, January, 14.—Hon. Nelson Dingley, leader or the republican side on the floor of the house of representatives and representing the Second congressional district of Maine in that body, died here last night at half past 10 o'clock of heart failure resulting from extreme weakness due to double pneumonia. He was unconscious during most of the day and death came quietly and without consciousness being regained. There were present at the time Mrs. Dingley, Miss Edith Dingley, Messrs. E. N. and A. H. Dingley, sons of the deceased; Mr. James C. Hoole, an intimate friend of the family Dr. Deale, one of the physicians who has been attending him throughout his illness and the two nurses. Until within a few hours before his death the family firmly believed, as they have throughout his illness, that Mr. Dingley would recover and it was only when it became apparent that he was dying that they gathered at his bedside.

The funeral will be conducted at the house of representatives on Monday next. The body will be taken to the house at 10 o'clock, and there lie in state till noon, when services will be conducted in the presence of the house and senate.

At 4:20 o'clock in the afternoon the funeral party will leave over the Pennsylvania railroad for Lewiston, Me., arriving there at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Further services will be held at the family residence in Lewiston no Wednesday. The interment will be in that city. The services in the house of representatives probably will be conducted by Rev. S. M. Newman, pastor of the First Congressional church, which Mr. Dingley was accustomed to attend while residing in Washington.

SKETCH OF A BUSY LIFE.

Nelson Dingley, jr., governor of Maine, 1874 75, and member of congress from the Second congressional district of Maine since 1881, was born in Durham, Androscoggin county, Me., in his grandfather's (Lambert) farm house on the banks of the Androscoggin river February 15, 1832 and was the son of Nelson and Jane (Lambert) Dingley.

At 17 he taught a winter school in the town of China, fourteen miles from home and he continued to teach winters while fitting for college. Entering Waterville college (now Colby University) in 1851, he remained there a year and a half and then became a student at Dartmouth college, from which institution he graduated in 1855. After leaving college Mr. Dingley studied law in 1855-6 with Merriman & Fessen, of Auburn, and in the latter year he was admitted to the bar. Instead of entering upon the practice of law he decided to become a journalist for which he always manifested a decided taste. In September 1856, he purchased the Lewiston Journal, of which he had been practically the editor while studying law and to which in 1861 he added a daily edition.

In 1861 at the age of 29, he was elected representative from Auburn to the state legislature in which body he at once took high rank, was re-elected in 1862 and chosen speaker of the house at the session of 1863. In 1863 he removed to Lewiston where a few months after he was elected to the legislature and with the opening of the legislative session of 1864 was unanimously re-elected speaker. He was elected to the house twice, subsequently, but declined the speakership, preferring to be on the floor.

In 1873 Mr. Dingley was elected governor of Maine by about 10,000 majority. In 1874 he was re-elected by 11,000 majority, declining a third nomination in 1875. He was one of the delegates-at-large from Maine to the republican national convention in 1876, and served on the committee on resolutions and was one of the sub-committee of five who drafted the platform.

In 1881 Mr. Dingley was nominated by the republicans of the Second congressional district of Maine to fill the vacancy in congress caused by the resignation of William P. Frye. He was elected by a majority of over 5,000, nearly twice as large as ever before given to any candidate in that district. He served on the committee on banking and currency. He was re-elected nine times. His first speech in congress was made April 25, 1882, on "Protection to American Shipping."

Under a joint resolution introduced by Mr. Dingley and passed August 7, 1882, he was appointed a member of a joint committee to investigate the condition and wants of American shipbuilding. President McKinley tendered the position of secretary of the treasury to Mr. Dingley, but he declined the offer, preferring to remain in his position as chairman of the ways and means committee and floor leader of the republican majority of the house.

Under his leadership the house within sixteen days after the Fifty-fifth congress was convened in extraordinary session passed a bill revising the tariff.

Mr. Dingley was a Congregationalist in religion. He was married June 11, 1857, to Miss Salome McKenny, of Auburn, Me. They have had six children of whom five survive.

Lucky for the Last "Next."

There were five of us hunting and fishing in the Queensland bush, when one rainy day a stranger appeared. He said he was a tramp barber, and as none of us had been shaved for a fortnight we gave him half a day's work.

About four hours after he had left us a band of six men rode up and the leader inquired if we had seen a tall, roughly dressed man pass that way. We told him of the barber, and he looked from man to man and exclaimed:

"Good gracious, but you all are freshly shaved!"

"Yes, we gave the barber a job."

"And he shaved every one of you?"

"He did, and did it well."

"Boys, do you hear that?" shouted the man as he turned to his companions.

"What of it?" asked one of our party.

"Why he went insane yesterday and cut a man's throat in his barber chair over at Unadilla, and we're after him to put him in an asylum."

They rode away at a gallop and next morning returned to our camp with the man, who had been captured after a hard fight and was tied on his horse. He seemed to remember us when he was given a drink of water, and as he handed the cup back he quietly observed:

"I say, gentlemen, please excuse me. I meant to finish off the last man who got shaved, but I got thinking of something else, and it slipped my mind."—Sydney Herald.

ACCORDING to a despatch from Ithaca, "a new and very important psychological discovery had been made in the laboratories at Cornell. The relation between 'intensity of stimulus' and 'intensity of sensation' of sense of smell had been demonstrated to be exponent between 1-3 and 1-4. This is a new feature of 'Weber,s law,' of which, until the experiments at Cornell were completed, nothing definite was known." Once upon a time a philosopher said, in speaking of a certain important discovery of his, that its great beauty lay in the fact that it could be of no earthly use to anybody.

THE recent troubles between the races in North Carolina may well cause thoughtful people throughout the states to ponder. The feeling is growing more and more intense and is likely to separate the classes as never before. Steps are already in progress in North Carolina to virtually disfranchise the blacks. They might as well be slaves and done with it as to live in constant terror whenever they assume the right to exercise the privileges of citizenship.

COMMISSARY General Eagan continues to be very warm over the damaging statements about his department made by General Miles. His bitter language will not alter the facts in the case. And the facts constitute a national scandal. Gen Miles has earned the gratitude of the American people by his fearless utterances. As for General Eagan the sooner he learns to keep his mouth shut the better will it be for his already badly shattered military reputation. His anathemas against General Miles will cut no figure, though, for the matter of that, it would do neither the general of the army nor any other gentleman any harm if all the clubs in the land were to exclude them. Perhaps less club and attention to duty would have clarified the situation for Commissary General Eagan and rendered his administration of an important branch of the service more efficient.

COLORADO is in favor of the abolition of capital punishment, but thinks, with Alphonse Karr, that the murders should stop first. Two years ago the state passed a law making life imprisonment instead of death the penalty for murder, and now there is a popular agitation for its repeal. It was found by experiment that is to stopping first the Colorado murderer would not think of it; in fact, he would not stop at all, and went on worse than ever as soon as the law abolishing death penalty was passed. An effort will now be made to have it restored, and though it promises to encounter sentimental and humantarian opposition, the prospects are that it will succeed, and the normal average of homicides in that state be restored.

Butler's Backdown.

Senator Butler of North Carolina will withdraw the bill he recently introduced to provide pensions for ex-confederate soldiers. This action on his part is a confession that he played the part of a demagogue in introducing it. It was presented immediately after President McKinley, at Atlanta, expressed himself in favor of having the federal government participate in the care of the graves of confederate soldiers and Butler's aim, of course, was to discredit the sentiment the president had expressed. He sought to make it appear that if the president were really sincere in the sentiment he should be in favor of the Butler measure for confederate pensions. Butler knew such a measure could not be passed in congress, if he did not appreciate that it ought not to be passed; yet at a time when events were doing more than at any other time since the civil war to dissolve sectional lines and unify national sentiment, Butler was willing in the hope of making a little cheap political capital, to father such a measure as the one he brought forward. He has done the country a service, however, in taking such a course, for the result of his doing so has been to demonstrates that the ex-confederates themselves do not ask for the passage of the measure Butler proposed. On the contrary, they spoke quickly and generally against it, and what is more gratifying, they have indicated clearly enough to Butler that they condemn the spirit which prompted him to introduce it and that they approve instead the cultivation of the sentiment to which President McKinley's southern trip gave such an impetus.

SENATOR JOSEPH R. HAWLEY, of Connecticut, has been renominated by the republican legislative caucus and will be duly chosen for another term in the body whereof he has so long been a useful member. A gentleman by the name of Fessenden coveted Senator Hawley's seat and put up such a boasting canvass that there was general alarm lest he might win. This was not because there was any special objection to Fessenden, but because of the general conviction that Connecticut would make a greater blunder and cause a serious loss to the nation if she was to reject Gen. Hawley. Fortunately there was no real ground for apprehension. The land of steady habits has not lost its sanity.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

What does it do?

It causes the oil glands in the skin to become more active, making the hair soft and glossy, precisely as nature intended.

It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and thus removes one of the great causes of baldness.

It makes a better circulation in the scalp and stops the hair from coming out.

It Prevents and It Cures Baldness

Ayer's Hair Vigor will surely make hair grow on bald heads, provided only there is any life remaining in the hair bulbs.

It restores color to gray or white hair. It does not do this in a moment, as will a hair dye; but in a short time the gray color of age gradually disappears and the darker color of youth takes its place.

Would you like a copy of our book on the Hair and Scalp? It is free.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor write the Doctor about it.

How Santiago Was Cleaned.

Robert P. Porter, special commissioner for the United States to Cuba and Porto Rico, in his report to the secretary of the treasury, tells what he saw in a recent visit to those islands. Speaking of improvements made at Santiago, Mr. Porter stated that the disagreeable smells of the typical Cuban city are less pronounced in Santiago, while whitewash, limewash, fresh paint, and all sorts of disinfectants have deodorized the surrounding atmosphere and made the old town quite habitable. The streets are no longer used as sewers, and the unhappy individual who may violate the law and who escapes the lash of the sanitary commissioner's whip is compelled to work on the street for thirty days. Sanitary commissioner Barbour has under him one hundred and twenty-six men dressed in spotless white and 32 mule teams and carts. This force of men have dug out from the streets the filth of ages, and they are now kept absolutely clean. By the aid of petroleum the garbage of the day is burned. The work of sanitation is not confined to the streets, but extends to the dwelling houses and other buildings. In many cases the doors of houses had to be smashed in and the people making sewers of the thoroughfares were publicly horsewhipped in the streets. These measures were drastic, but were entirely warranted by the flagarnt carelessness of the people. Some of the most respectable citizens were hauled before the commanding general and sentenced to aid in cleaning the streets they were in the habit of defiling. The campaign has resulted in a complete surrender to the sanitary authorities, and the inhabitants of Santiago have had their first object lesson in the new order of the things which came with the close of the war.

Two Shades.

Two misty shades met in illimitable space.

"Ah," cried one, "why sighest though?"

"I sigh," replied the other, "over the sad decline of a decaying stage."

"You do!" cried the first. "How strange! For, know you, this lamentable decline sorely afflicts me as well."

"To think," moaned the other, "that at this very moment a make-up nose—save the mark!—doth move the groundlings to ardent admiration. Was ever anything so grotesque, so flippant, so coarse?"

"Never," cried the first; "It passes belief. This Cyrano's nose seemeth more like the gibing fancy of a Christmas mumy than the staid accessory of a play.

"I am glad," said the wailing one, "to find such quick and touching sympathy. May I ask your name?"

"I," proudly replied the other, "am Richard's hump. And you?"

"I am Trilby's foot."

And they drifted away together.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

AND still the volunteers are hoping for muster out.

THE people want a prompt ratification of the peace treaty.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.

The Union Veteran Legion Have a High Old Time and an Oyster Supper.

Tuesday Jan. 12, the Union Veteran Legion, of this city had an interesting meeting in the Gregg Post rooms and installed the following officers for the ensuing year:

Colonel, Samuel Sheffer; Lieut. Col. H. K. Miller; Major, Isaac Smith; Chaplain, J. W. Stuart; Surgeon, Dr. Theo. S. Christ; Quartermaster. W. H. Taylor, Adjutant, John I. Curtin; Officer of the Day, Amos Mullen; Officer of the Guard, John Griffith Color Bearer, W. H. Musser.

Past Colonel commanding was the installing officer. and performed his duties promptly and in excellent military style.

Congratulations were extended to the new officers and replys thereto, after which the meeting was adjourned to the dining room to partake of an oyster supper prepared by the wives of members of the Legion who were Mrs Amos Mullen, Mrs. Herman K. Miller, Mrs. Chas. Smith, Mrs Geo. Smith, Mrs, Isaac Smith, of Farmers Mills and Mrs. Christian Swartz, who in their best "bib and tucker" and with steps as elastic as in the days of their youth served the tables with the delicious bivalves. In the meantime the feasters were treated to the choicest of music by the graphophone in charge of Charles Smith and Master Willie Reese. After supper there was all kinds of galore, Chas Smith acting as master of the musical ceremonies.

Paying the Cuban Soldiers.

The project of paying the Cuban soldiers is attracting more and more attention and discussion since we assumed formal possession of the island. There is some justice in their claim that as we are collecting the revenues of the island we should assume this debt. For the present we make it impossible for them to pry themselves through their so-called government, for it has neither revenues nor indeed a recognized existence. It would be hard indeed to compel them to wait until their government is established. They certainly deserve to be paid, at least in part, for their services. If they now had a government of their own, undoubtedly one of the first would be remunerated to the extent of its ability those by whose exertions it came into being. We now stand in the place of such a government, and the moral and equitable claim which they have upon us is a very strong one. It would be hard to find a precedent for such a course but new situations demand new methods. To pay the money speedily will go far toward lessening the task we have set ourselves to perform in the island, and we can easily take measures to reimburse ourselves for ever dollar of it, either out of the current revenues or by making it a part of the light debt with which the new government will start upon its career.

The New Telephone Company.

Tuesday of last week the Central Commercial Telphone Company held an election of officers in their rooms in Temple Court. The following nine directors were chosen: Ellis L. Orvis, Esq., Frank E. Goodhart.

A SCHOOL master had been giving a lesson on physical force. "Boys," said he, "can any one of you tell me what force it is that moves people along—for example, in the street?"

It is a mistake to call the fight between the sugar trust and the Arbuckles and Doerscher war on the sugar trust. It is a fight between two trusts for control of the market, and, no matter which wins, the sugar consumers will eventully repay all losses.

A GRAVE SITUATION.

Gen. Rios Cables Madrid Concerning Philippines.

NO UNEASINESS AT WASHINGTON

He Says Filipnos Are About to Attack It—Nothing Disquieting Heard From General Otis.

MADRID, Jan. 12. Gen. Rios, the Spanish commander, cables from Manila reiterating the assertion that the situation of affairs in the Philippine islands is most grave. The rebels, it appears, are concentrating in the neighborhood of Manila with the intention of attacking that place. Great preparations are being made for the defense of the city.

The Spanish general also asserts that the natives of the Visayes have again refused to permit the Americans to land, threatening to resist by force if an attempt is made to do so. The Americans, therefore, according to Gen. Rios, have abandoned the idea of disembarking, and he confirms a previous statement to the effect that they are unwilling to bombard Iloilo, "because the European houses are stocked with petroleum, with the view of being set alight by the American shells."

Gen. Rios also alleges the rebels are determined to fight the Americans before reinforcements arrive from the United States.

In conclusion Gen. Rios says Aguinaldo's proclamation has "produced immense enthusiasm among the rebels."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12.—It was said at the war department Wednesday that absolutely nothing had been heard over night from Gen. Otis at Manila touching the state of affairs there.

When inquiry was made relative to a report that there had been a meeting Tuesday near Manila of a commission selected jointly by Gen. Otis and Aguinaldo. It was pointed out that under the large discretionary authority conferred upon him by the department, and in conformity with the president's express instructions to exhaust all peaceful means of adjusting the difficulty with the insurgents, Gen. Otis had full authority to adopt such a course without asking express permission from the department. His course is thoroughly approved by the president up to this point.

A rather interesting question is raised by the meeting of this commission as to whether it does or does not constitute a recognition of the insurgents, but the general opinion is that it does not, the matter being one of purely internal concern, with which no foreign nation has a right to interfere. Meanwhile the meeting of the commission has served at least to avert the crisis which seemed impending in the Philippines, and there is now fair grounds for the supposition that the statu quo will be maintained at least until the ratification of the pending peace treaty.

Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. Hard on Free Traders.

These are hard times on free trade journals that have been discoursing lugubriously of the stagnation in all kinds of business. Here, for instance is the Altoona Times bringing words of unusual activity in the shoe factory at Tyrone. What a pity it is that newspapers of that kind do not take their medicine in a manly fashion and add what they can to the impetus which a republican administration and a republican tariff have given every branch of trade.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

—About ten years ago, F. Strause, proprietor of the Farmer's Hotel, at Summit station, this state, had a gray fox, with which he intended to have a chase. The fox was chained, but one night before the time for the chase, Reynard escaped, breaking the chain. The wily animal feasted on chickens and turkeys in the neighborhood and then disappeared. Nothing was heard of the fox until last Friday, when Bobert Heffner a veteran of the Spanish war, shot a fox in a township nearby, which proved to be the same animal that escaped from Mr. Strause. The collar which was made to chain the fox ten years before was around the animal's neck. The county paid a bounty of one dollar for the scalp.

I saw the flag of Stripes and Stars,
Through many conflicts, many wars,
Give freedom to the human race,
To every land, in every place.

Despotic rule was cast aside,
Earth's peoples seemed to confide
In better rulers, better laws
Than e'er before, I asked the cause.
The angel answered thus to me, :
"Behold this state of things must be,
For the glad time, the peaceful reign,
Has come; Christ dwells in earth again.

The time is here; no more shall war
Rend homes in twain, earth's hope to mar;
Messiah's reign no more shall cease,
For all the world shall dwell in peace.
Heaven comes down as long foretold;"
The angel said, "Behold! behold!
Earth's suited well for Paradise,
Where dwells no envy, pride or vice."

Was it a dream? Was angel seen?
Illusive dream it must have been;
Yet while I mused, the promise given,
Came to my thought, Oh! may kind heaven
Soon haste the day, when we shall see
Our flag "Old Glory," flag of the free
Wave just beneath Messiah's throne
Because of victories she has won.

If You Are in Doubt

Whether you have kidney or bladder disease, just put some of your urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours; if it has a sediment, or a milky, cloudy appearance, if it is ropy or stringy, pale or discolored, your kidneys or bladder are sick.

Other serious symptoms are pain in the back, frequent desire to urinate especially at night, a burning scalding pain in passing urine, or when your urine stains linen.

The one sure cure for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation is Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. It has cured in many cases where all else failed and is sold at all drug stores for $1.00 for a large bottle, or six bottles for $5.00.

By a special arrangement with the manufacturers we offer our readers the opportunity of getting a trial bottle of this invaluable remedy absolutely free, which will be sent postpaid to anyone who will send their address to the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y., and mention the REPUBLICAN.

The publisher of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this liberal offer.

OUR democratic brethren seem to be greatly excited over the choice of a candidate for United States senator. As though it was of any consequence whom they nominate!

PROGRESS is made only through the leaven of dissenting views, the attrition of mind with mind, but it is none the less to be regretted that there should be so much discord in the national convention of the mine workers. Harmony is never secured except by mutual concessions.

THE SENATORSHIP.

Even Democrats Are Fighting for the Place.

CASE OF JENKS AND BLACK

Both Men Desire to Lead a Forlorn Hope—They Wait on the Republicans.

EACH MAN HAS HIS SAY

HARRISBURG, January 12.—The selection of a successor to Matthew Stanley Quay in the United States senate has created almost as much contention among the Democrats in the legislature as it has in the Republican ranks. With the Democracy the question is whether George A. Jenks, of Brookville, or Chauncey F. Black, of York, shall be the nominee of today's caucus in the Supreme Court chamber.

With the Republicans it is the field against Senator Quay with neither faction certain as to the outcome. The Republicans have a majority of seventy-four on joint ballot, and the only way the Democrats hope to win is through a split by the Republicans.

Senator Quay has a majority of votes to start with in his own party, but so long as the anti-Quay legislators stand solidly together he cannot be re-elected. While the Democrats are divided on the selection of a candidate to be voted for against Quay, they agree that the senator will not poll any Democratic votes.

The senate and house will vote separately next Tuesday and jointly the following day. Many of the legislators are predicting that there will be a deadlock and that a seastor will not be elected until after the trial of the Quay Haywood conspiracy cases in the courts of Philadelphia.

The thirteen Democratic senators and seventy-one members will meet at 9:00 o'clock this morning to nominate their candidate. Colonel James M. Guffey, of Pittsburg, member of the National Democratic committee; ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison, Philadelphia; Chairman J. M. Garman, for the State committee, and other party leaders from over the state are here in Jenks' interest. Ex-Judge James Gay Gordon, of Philadelphia; ex-Congressman Howard Mutchler, of Easton, and Jere S. Black, Jr., of York, are directing Mr. Black's canvass.

Mr. Jenks' friends claim he is entitled to the honor for having borne the brunt of the fight in the last gubernatorial campaign. He was the Democratic nominee and was beaten by over 100,000 plurality by Governor-elect Stone. The Jenks people say it is the party custom to accord this honor to the defeated candidate for governor.

Mr. Black was the nominee two years ago and is claiming the nomination at this time on the ground that Jenks had promised him his support during the campaign. Both declare they will stay in the fight to the finish and gracefully yield to the decision of the caucus.

It is stated that a secret conference has been held between the leaders of the Quay faction and certain Democratic leaders with a view to preventing fusion on the senatorship between the Democrats and anti Quay Republicans. The Democrats who took part in the conference will, it is stated, endeavor to hold 84 Democratic members of the legislature in line for a straight-out Democrat, thus defeating the selection of an anti-Quay Republican.

Senator Quay reached Harrisburg at midnight from Washington to take personal direction of his campaign. Senator Penrose came with him and during their stay they will be guests at the residence of County Chairman Weiss.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company turned out 75 locomotives last year and had 7,000 freight cars built.

There is no feminine in the English language for the words sage and philosopher. The reason is obvious.

The girl who comes down to breakfast with curl papers in her hair should marry the man who eats at the table with his coat off.

The erection of a big Union station in Clearfield for the B, R. & P. and B. C. roads is the latest gossip among railroad people at that place.

Some Clearfield women have organized what is to be known as the "Racket Club," and if any of the husbands want to know what it means let them come home late at night with "trixy" perfume on.

An Act of Benevolence.

A few weeks ago Miss Rebecca Heckman, a school teacher in Benner township and a daughter of Daniel Heckman, one of our county commissioners, noticed that three of her little scholars were not attending school. She wondered what was the reason and went to their homes to find out. There she met a very pitiful sight; the children had nothing but rags on their little backs, and were nearly starved. She immediately came to town and bought food and clothing for them. She is a kind Christian young lady and deserves to be mentioned as we have done, If some of our people who have an abundance of money, and who are always sending money and clothing to foreign countries, would look around them here at home, as this young lady has done, the Lord would bless them, as He has her.

Burned to Death.

H. E. Rice, a young man who carried the mail between Kane and Corduroy, was burned to death at the latter place early Thursday morning. A special from Kane says the young man had a room furnished for his use in the barn. The night was intensely cold, and the probabilities are that Rice turned on a full head of gas in the stove. The place caught fire evidently while the young man was asleep. That he was awakened before his death by the smoke and flame is evident from the position of the body, which was partially out of bed. The remains were buried to a charred and blackened mass. Six horses were cremated, together with other contents of the barn, including buggies, wagons, etc.
